Jon Bang Carlsen about the film: Shortly after my mother's death I decided to make a film about her. Like a true mother's boy I thought that I could draw a portrait of my mother on the blackboard, blindfolded. She was more than anything else the place where I came from. But the more I looked at her person, the more blurred she became, as if she had decided to take all her reflections on this earth with her on her journey to the other side..

Then I started to reread her letters...
