COUPLE TROUBLE

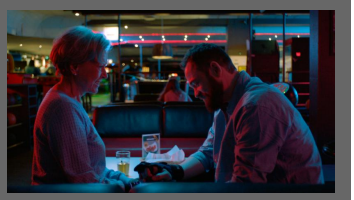

Michael Spooner, Parminder Singh, Jacob Bitsch, Denmark, 2018
330 min. | TV series

'Couple Trouble' is a love story about Anders and Lise.
They're married, in their 30s, they love each other and have a wonderful daughter. But when they've been together for seven years, everyday life starts affecting them both in earnest, and they end up on the verge of divorce.

Anders and Lise aren't prepared to give up on each other and the family though, and as such start seeing a couples' counselor. Now they struggle to find their way back to love and how things once were starts. Because who and what is actually responsible for them ending up where they are?

Through flashbacks told from the office of the couples' counselor, we experience Anders and Lise's relationship over the course of the past seven years. The two of them are forced to laugh and cry their way through the ups and downs of their relationship; intense ups of passion, romance and adventure, but also downs of affairs, jealousy, disappointments and endless misunderstandings. Will the counseling help them and can they stomach hearing the truth – allowing love to return to their relationship?
