Series (documentary)

EN | DA

A tv-series about girls and horses and the passion and community that grow from the meeting between the girls and the big animals. We follow several teenage girls who each have a special need for being close to their horses, and via the girls we are immersed in a universe filled with tenderness and danger. We experience how the horse are able to give the girls a space in which they can navigate between freedom and control, and how the horses assist the girls in their delicate transition from girls to women.
