DET ONDE STØV

Jakob Gottschau, Denmark, 2005

29 min. | DK/Documentary

EN | DA

100 years ago asbestos became known as a magic mineral and the use of millions of tons of asbestos created a very profitable industry. And for almost as long, the industry has known that asbestos is extremely dangerous to people.

The documentary is part of the international awarded series "Late Lessons from Early Warnings" which explores how we have been able to respond to warnings about the hazards posed by some of the greatest technological innovations of the last century.

We have not always been that successful.
