LOVE REVISITED

Martin Winther, Denmark, 2014
 17 min. | DK/Short fiction

A film director has been left by his girlfriend. He produces a film in order to find answers of how love can simple disappear like that. Together with two young actors he reenacts scenes from the relationship. The film director is convinced that he will find his answers, but must gradually acknowledge that love is not as black and white, as he wants it to be.
